A Tradition for Caring

Evergreen Cemetery, one of the largest cemeteries in Kentucky, is steeped in historical significance. Founded in 1847 with 17 acres, it now comprises approximately 300 acres of beautifully landscaped, rolling terrain. It was originally known as the Newport Cemetery with offices located at 35 East Fourth Street in Newport.

Some of the impressive structures in Evergreen Cemetery were built around the turn of the century and were renovated in 1971. These include the Evergreen Cemetery Chapel and Mausoleum (1902) and the Maintenance Building (circa 1908). Today the Evergreen Cemetery Chapel and Mausoleum is considered one of the most beautiful structures of its kind in the nation.

The Shaler Battery Breastworks, a Civil War gun emplacement, is one of the focal points of Evergreen Cemetery. It was designated a Kentucky Landmark in 1972 by the Kentucky Heritage Commission. The Shaler Battery Breastworks is situated at the highest point in Evergreen. A band stand was built at the site as a memorial to all military services.

Many prominent people have been interred in Evergreen. These include Col. James A. Taylor, Brent Spence, George Wiedemann and Richard Southgate.
